

People of Potential Series

Starting in the right place...

This is a seven-day, seven-month experience for people who: aspire to become a leader, are new in leadership, or need foundations for their leadership roles.

Built around The Leadership Maker, this is a highly experiential series driven by relevant assignments between sessions. As one of the most popular series at Priority Learning, this newly updated program represents what leaders need in today's ever evolving and highly diverse workplace.

The Goal

At Priority Learning, leadership careers are important to us. Companies that range from financial institutions to manufacturing and all industries in between have experienced what we can do. We consider this to be the best people-network arena for learning. We keep our workshop attendance to no more than 12, which enhances the quality of learning throughout the sessions and creates long-lasting relationships and resources.
